

The Impact of Technologies in the Interpersonal relations

In the 21st century the innovation in technologies is quickly than ever, and this has a lot of all kinds of impacts in our interpersonal relations. Because of that is necessary re-adapt ourselves for deal with that.

All peoples have good stories about that, if I need to say the most funny situation that happened with my friends I choose the classical of the microphone on in the wrong time. In reality this happen more times than expected, but in the wrong time and if what is said is strange is simply a laugh guaranteed.

Just imagine in a common class with only the “sor” talking and every one paying attention, when nobody expected, someone say “Mãe tem pão?”. Our luck was that our microphones were of, so she can’t listen our laugh.
